BIOGRAPHY EMMANUELLE LAROCHE

Multi-talented artist, Emmanuelle Laroche graduated from the National Theatre School of Canada's acting program in 2005 and has been active in both theatre and television from then on. She became known to the general public after playing a role in the television series C.A. and has since been seen in many other series including Ruptures, O', Mémoires Vives, Yamaska and Unité 9, to name a few.

A musician from a young age, she first completed her studies in music and still shares her time between singing, playing piano and guitar. Recently, her musical and artistic professionalism in the show Free, where the narrative was body percussion, was well appreciated.

Emmanuelle is also evolving as a stage director. She has directed several grand and acclaimed shows such as the musical: Blue suede show and the Opening and Closing Ceremonies of the 51st Final Quebec Games held in Montreal in 2016.

In addition to excelling in the arts, the actress spends her spare time either sailing or horseback riding and has been devoting herself to the practice of calf roping.

Living her passions to the fullest extent, you will certainly have the chance to see her perform in the near future, whether she'll be directing her own stage productions or acting on the screen
